HAWAIIAN PARLIAMENT.
HOUSE OF NOBLES.

Thursday, June 17, 1852.

The King's Chief Justice explained the act relating to dower, which was read a second time.

The rules were suspended, and the act passed.

The King's Chief Justice reported on the act relating to marriage and divorce, and presented a substitute.

On motion of Prince Lot, the report was accepted, and the substitute act was read a first time.

The rules were suspended and the act passed.

Mr. Wylie presented pursuant to order, an act amending the law respecting the issue of new laws to foreign Representatives and Consuls, which was read a first time, and on motion of Mr. Armstrong referred to Mr. Wylie for revision and translation.

Mr. Wylie presented, pursuant to notice, an act to regulate the interest on money.

On motion of Mr. Judd, the rules were suspended and the act read a second time. Referred to Mr. Armstrong for translation.

Mr. Wylie, pursuant to notice, presented an act to regulate the issue of passes to young women going from one island to another, and to discourage prostitution by means of passport, which was read a first time.

The rules were suspended and the act read a second time. On motion of Paki, it was laid on the table. Whereupon Mr. Wylie entered the following protest—

I protest against the rejection of the bill for the discouragement of prostitution among young females, and I give notice that if God spare me in health, I shall renew the motion during the next Legislature. Adjourned.

Friday, June 18, 1852.

The house met but adjourned without transacting any business.

Saturday, June 19, 1852.

A message was received from the lower house enclosing an act concerning school and road tax paid by native sailors to governors.

An act reducing the fees for enrollment of brands.

An act to provide for the erection of prisons for females distinct and separate from those of the males.

read a second time. On motion of Paki, the bill was laid on the table.

The act reducing the fees for the enrollment of brands, was read a first time. The rules were suspended, and the act passed a second reading.

Paki moved that it be laid on the table. Mr. Wylie moved as an amendment, that it be postponed until after the appropriation bill shall have come up—Carried.

The act to provide for the erection of prisons for females, distinct and separate from those of the males, was read a first time. The rules were suspended, and the act passed a second and third reading.

The act relating to the entry of whaling vessels, was read a first time. The rules were suspended, and the act passed a second and third reading.

The act relating to the stores of vessels was read a first time, and the rules were suspended and the act passed.

A message was received, enclosing an act reducing the tax on dogs. The act was read a first time. Mr. Armstrong moved that it be rejected. Lost—

On motion of Mr. Judd, seconded by Kapeau, it was postponed until after the appropriation bill shall have come up.

Mr. Wylie reported the act to amend the act for the issue of new laws to foreign representatives and consuls as revised. On a suspension of the rules, the act went through its several readings and passed. Adjourned.

Monday, June 21, 1852.

The house met, and there being no business, adjourned till after the meeting of the Privy Council. Met again at 12 o'clock.

A message was received from the house of representatives, enclosing the appropriation bill, which was read a first time. The rules were suspended, and the act passed a second reading—

Mr. Wylie moved that it be read article by article. Passed.

The remainder of the session was occupied in the discussion of the appropriation bill, and the following items agreed upon.

His Majesty's private purse, 15,000.
Royal State, $4,000.
Medical attendance, $1,000.

Mr. Wylie moved to insert the following provision, viz: "As there are several debts owed by the King, until these debts are paid there shall be an exception in His Majesty's special case of sec. VI, art. V, chap. III, art. 2, K. III, so as to render it lawful to pay off those debts, provided His Majesty's account shall not be overdrawn on the year." Passed.

Princes Alexander and Lot, $1,000 each.
$1,000 each to the following members of the Privy Council, viz:—Paki, Kanaina, Kapeau, Kapeu, Nani, and Haahele.

$1,000 each to Piki and Haahele.
$1,000 to the King's chamberlain.

Adjourned.

Tuesday, June 22, 1852.

The house was occupied during the entire session in the discussion of the appropriation bill, and several amendments were made. As the act after its final passage will be published entire, we defer noticing the amendments made by the upper house, as the bill has not been published, as it went from the house of representatives.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Tuesday, June 15th.

A letter was received from the Chief Justice, stating that his Majesty had signed the new constitution, but had slightly amended the 32nd article.

The Chief Justice and his highness John Young had been deputed by the king to render explanations to the house of the reasons for amending said article.

On motion of Mr. Rhodes a committee of one was appointed to wait upon the king's commissioners and notify them that at 11 A. M. the house would be ready to hear them.

A letter was received from A. Paki, Privy Councilor, withdrawing his name from the petition of yesterday praying for an increase of salary.

The committee on Finance, reported adverse to the petition of Privy Councilors for an increase of compensation, and recommended that their pay be reduced to $5 per diem, whenever the council sits.

Adopted.

The committee on agriculture reported the awa bill as amended. Referred to a select committee to further amend.

The committee on internal improvements reported against any action at present on the petition of N. Neomah and others of the agricultural society, for the protection by legal enactment of insectivorous birds. Adopted.

The select committee on the bill relating to marriage and divorce reported the same as amended. Report adopted and the bill passed.

The select committee on the bill respecting brands reported the same. Referred back to correct English version.

Mr. Marshall read a bill to provide separate prisons for female convicts in Kauai.

The King's commissioners were announced and stated to the house the amendment which his Majesty had made in the new constitution previous to signing it. The amendment was but a slight one in nature, and on motion was agreed to by the house.

Mr. Marshall moved that the King's commissioners be requested to convey to His Majesty the thanks of the representatives of the people for the constitution which he has been pleased to grant.

Mr. Neomah and others of the agricultural society, for the protection by legal enactment of insectivorous birds. Adopted.

The select committee on the bill relating to marriage and divorce reported the same as amended. Report adopted and the bill passed.

The select committee on the bill respecting brands reported the same. Referred back to correct English version.

Mr. Marshall moved that the King's commissioners be requested to convey to His Majesty the thanks of the representatives of the people for the constitution which he has been pleased to grant.

dog tax and trespass bills. Also the Fire Dept bill amended by striking out the exemption from school tax. The latter was adopted with the amendment.

The same com. on the cattle brands bill reported the same as amended. Adopted.

The order of the day—the appropriation bill for 1852—3 was then taken up in com. of the whole and debated, item by item. Pending the consideration of the bill the com. rose (the time of adjourning having arrived) and the house adjourned.

Thursday, June 17.

A message was read from the upper house concurring in several bills.

Mr. Rhodes offered a resolution instructing the com. on Accounts to draw on the Minister of Finance for the portrait of Kamehameha I. Adopted.

The com. on the Judiciary reported the bill for arrest of insolvent debtors. Report adopted and bill passed.

The cattle brand bill (from sel. com.) passed 3 several readings.

The sel. com. on the bill respecting the taxes of marine seamen reported the same—bill passed 3 readings.

Mr. Naisapaakai offered a resolution to the effect that the further consideration of the appropriation bill be postponed till next Monday.

Mr. Marshall objected to postpone, expected to have to leave before the session was over, and would like to see this bill finished first. After some further conversation the resolution was carried.

Mr. Wakeman read a first time a bill for the better regulation of Govt. schools. (This bill provides for the election in each district, of a school com. of 3, and abolishes the office of Min. of Public Ins. inasmuch as in its place a separate Bureau in the office of the Min. of Interior.)

Mr. Richardson, seconded by Mr. Funk moved to reject.

Mr. Rhodes supported the bill. The reduction of salary which the bill would cause was quite a consideration, and the efficiency of the system would be none the less. Why not as well have a bureau of Pub. Ins. under the Min. of the Interior as one of Pub. Improvements. There was no such Ministerial office in Great Britain.
